

Evrinomi Avdi

Associate Professor, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece

Eugenie Georgaca

Associate Professor, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece

Evrinomy Avdi is a clinical psychologist and Associate Professor in clinical psychology at the School of Psychology of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece. Her research interests lie in the application of discourse and narrative analytic approaches to the study of various domains of clinical psychology practice, in particular systemic and psychodynamic psychotherapy and health psychology. She is particularly interested in exploring the links between deconstructive research and actual clinical practice, as well as the interface between affective/ embodied and discursive aspects of subjectivity and psychotherapy process.

Eugenie Georgaca is Associate Professor in clinical psychology at the School of Psychology of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece. She teaches, researches and publishes in the area of clinical psychology, psychotherapy and mental health, and especially qualitative methodology, psychoanalysis and critical perspectives on psychopathology. She is co-author of 'Deconstructing Psychopathology' (Sage, 1995) and author of papers on psychotic discourse, delusions, discursive approaches to analysing psychotherapy, discourse analysis and social constructionist notions of subjectivity.